

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An articulated door is formed from a plurality of panels hingedly connected to one another. Each of the 5 panels has an end fitting. The end fittings of the panels are pivotally linked with one another to form a chain to one side of the articulated door. A rotatable tooth gear engages the chain for opening and closing the articulated door.